

Takako Akakura was born in Toyama, Japan. She received her B.Law, M.Law, and Ph.D. in Law degrees from the Faculty of Law, Kobe University, Kobe, Japan. She received two further Ph.D. degrees, one in Human Science from the Department of Educational Technology, Faculty of Human Science, Osaka University, Osaka, Japan, and another in Engineering from the Department of System Design Engineering, Faculty of Engineering, Kanazawa Institute of Technology, Ishikawa, Japan

In 2001, she joined the Faculty of Engineering, Tokyo University of Science, where she has been a Professor since 2005. Her current research interests include educational technology and law for technology. She is a fellow of IEICE, Japan, and a director of Japan Society for Educational Technology, where she was also a vice chair from 2013 to 2015, and from 2019 to 2021.

Her other accomplishments include holding the chair of the Japan Chapter, Education Society of IEEE from 2015 to 2017, and receiving the Best Poster Award of ICCE2007.