Chip Elliott, BBN / GENI Project Office

Title:
GENI: Exploring Networks of the Future

Abstract:
GENI is a US National Science Foundation project creating research infrastructure to support "at scale" experiments in future internets, services, and novel applications. This talk provides an update on GENI's current status, its growing use in research experimentation, and future plans.