Kyoto is serviced by a city bus system run by several companies, Japan Railways (JR) lines, two subways, five private train lines, and a large number of taxi companies. Make the most of your time in the city by choosing the best means of transportation.

Kyoto City Buses

Most of the buses in Kyoto are painted light green, with a thick dark green line down the center. For more information call 075-801-2561 (Japanese language only).

How to ride on a bus and paying the fare

Entry to the bus is usually through the back door; exit via the front door (and pay at the front). In nearly all cases, inner-city bus fares are fixed (¥220). On boarding buses serving outer areas, take a numbered ticket (seiri-ken) when entering the bus. The number of the ticket is indicated on an electronic board at the front of the bus, telling you how much you have to pay. All of the above buses have change making machines for ¥100 and ¥500 coins, or ¥1000 notes (the driver will not usually be able to change larger notes). Children under 12 years of age pay half of the adult fare; children under 6 do not have to pay (limited to two children under six years of age per adult). Pay at the front of the bus. Simply put the money into the see-through plastic box next to the driver on your way out.

Subways and trains

Kyoto has two subway lines: the Karasuma line and the Tozai line. In addition to the subway, there are five private train companies operating in the city area (Keifuku, Eizan, Keihan, Hankyu, and Kintetsu).

How to buy tickets

Most train and subway stations are equipped with automatic ticket dispensing machines. To purchase your ticket, put the money in the machine first. Then select the button for your ticket price and press that button. You can also pay at the front of the bus, telling you how much you will have to pay. All of the above buses have change making machines for ¥100 and ¥500 coins, or ¥1000 notes (the driver will not usually be able to change larger notes). Children under 12 years of age pay half of the adult fare; children under 6 do not have to pay (limited to two children under six years of age per adult). Pay at the front of the bus. Simply put the money into the see-through plastic box next to the driver on your way out.

Trafica prepaid cards

These prepaid cards can be used for all city subways and buses. They come in ¥1,000 and ¥3,000 value sizes, and can be used like a ticket to enter the transportation. The ¥3,000 cards are discounted. There is no time limit on these cards.

City bus prepaid cards

These prepaid cards are valid only for city buses. The ¥2,000 cards include a discount. They are used in the same way as the Trafica Kyo card above. If you only plan to ride the bus for one day, there is also a special one-day ticket available for ¥500.

Transportation between Kansai International Airport and Kyoto

Limousine buses to KIX

A limousine bus service to and from the Kansai International Airport (KIX) between Kyoto Daigo1, Keihan Sanjo Station2 and the Hachijoguchi exit of Kyoto Station is available on a daily basis. For more information and reservations call 075-682-4400 (9:00-19:00). Time to KIX: about 105 min. from Kyoto Station. Fare: ¥2,300 for adults, and ¥1,150 for children. Round-trip fare ¥3,800 for adults only. *One Service a day.

Haruka JR Limited Express

This direct limited express runs between Kyoto and KIX. It leaves from JR Kyoto Sta. Reservations are recommended during busy departure times. Generally, there are two trains every hour. The trip takes about 75 minutes. Fare: ¥3,490 (reserved); ¥2,980 (non-reserved); ¥6,260 (round-trip reserved seats)

Shuttle Taxi Service to KIX

A shuttle taxi service directly connects between Kyoto and KIX. You don’t have to worry about how to get the airport and can relax on the way. Just make a reservation (or ask your hotel concierge to get one), and they will come to pick you up. Yasaka Taxi KIX Shuttle: ¥3,000/person; Tel: 075-803-4800; MK Taxi Sky Gate Shuttle: ¥3,000/person; Tel: 075-702-5489.
The word Rakuchu, which came into use at the end of the 16th century when Toyotomi Hideyoshi built a protective wall around Kyoto as part of his renewal plan of the city, distinguishes the inside of the city (inside the wall) from the outside (Rakugai). Today, Rakuchu refers to what is primarily the downtown area of the city. It includes the area around Kyoto Station, the Shijo Kawaramachi shopping district, and the traditional areas of Gion and Nishiki.
Toji Temple

This temple, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, was built to pray for peace and tranquility of the capital when Heian-kyo, the original name of Kyoto, was established in 794. The temple’s 5-story pagoda is the highest in Japan (56.4 meters). The temple is home to numerous works of arts, many of which are National Treasures. On the 21st of every month, a giant temple market is held here.

Access: City bus, get off at Shimogamo Jinja-mae (#205 from Kyoto Sta.)
Gion Shinbashi Area

This well-preserved Edo-period area, centered around Shinbashi Street, is famous for its refined scenery, tea houses, and the appearance of geiko (geisha in Kyoto) and maiko (apprentice geiko) walking serenely to and from work. Twilight is considered the best time to photograph geisha in this unique setting. The area also includes a special monument to Isamu Yoshii, a poet who devoted to the charms of Gion.

Kyoto Station Area

Shijo Kawaramachi area

Shijo Street is the main east-west shopping street in downtown Kyoto. It is lined with most of the city’s department stores, some of its largest banks, and many shops and intersects with two of Kyoto’s biggest shopping arcades (Teramachi Street and Shinkyogoku Street). Kawaramachi Street, running north-south and intersecting Shijo Street, is full of amusement facilities, and more shops of all kinds. The area where these two streets intersect is the busiest in Kyoto.

Kyoto Tower

This white, 131-meter tower, shaped like a giant Japanese candle, was completed in 1964. Located directly in front of Kyoto Station.

Kyoto Station Building

Higashi Honganji Temple

This temple, which was created independent of Nishi-Honganji Temple by order of the shogun Tokugawa Ieyasu in 1602, consists of a number of huge wooden buildings, one of which is among the largest in the world.

Tel: 075-371-9181
Open: 5:50-17:30 (6:20-16:30 from Nov. to Feb.)
Entry: free

Nishiki Food Market

This market, set up along Nishikikoji St. between Teramachi and Takakura streets, is known as the "kitchen of Kyoto." On this narrow, stone-paved street, about 150 grocery stores sell the best fresh produce available in Kyoto. It is always bustling with customers who come to look, to taste, and to buy the best.
This area, also known as Higashiyama, runs parallel to Kyoto's eastern mountains. Many of Kyoto's most famous temples and shrines and cultural facilities such as museums, libraries and exhibition halls are located here. The Rakuto area is especially suited for walking tours, all of which can be completed in less than half a day.
Kyoto Sightseeing Spots  RAKU TO

Kiyomizu-dera Temple
A UNESCO World Heritage Site. The main hall, famous for its spacious outdoor, cliff-like balcony, supported on an intricate, several-story-high wooden structure of pillars, is a designated National Treasure. Kiyomizu means pure water. Much of the large temple area offers outstanding views of the city.

Access: City bus, get off at Ginkakuji-mae (#5 from Kyoto Sta.)

Murin-an
Completed in 1896 as a villa for the famous politician, Yamagata Aritomo, the garden of Murin-an makes excellent use of the eastern hills as a backdrop. The compounds 3,300-square-meter grounds has two ponds, and a western-style house, where politicians once discussed key issues concerning the war with Russia.
Tel: 075-771-3909
Open: 9:00-16:30
Entry: ¥350
Access: Tozai subway line, Higashiyama Sta.

Kyoto City Zoological Garden
As Japan’s second-oldest zoo, the Kyoto Zoo is home to 900 animals of more than 200 different species. It was the first zoo in Japan to successfully raise lion cubs, and breed lowland gorillas. The zoo also contains a library, an amusement park for children, and a rescue center for wild birds and animals.
Tel: 075-771-0210
Open: 9:00-17:00, closed on Mondays.
Entry: ¥500
Access: Tozai subway line, Higashiyama Sta.

Gion area
This extensive area is bordered by Yasaka Shrine to the east, Kenninji Temple to the south, the Kamogawa river to the west and Shinbashi Street to the north. It is Kyoto’s most famous and popular entertainment district, full of first-class Japanese restaurants, bars and clubs.
Access: City bus, get off at Gion (#206, 100 from Kyoto Sta.)

Tetsugakuno-michi (Path of Philosophy)
This famous walking route stretches for two kilometers, along a canal, between Ginkakuji Temple and Nyakuoji Shrine at the base of the Higashiyama foothills. The path was named after the famous philosopher Nishida Kitaro, who liked to walk along this route and meditate on philosophical matters. The path is popular year-round, especially in spring for cherry blossoms and in early summer for fireflies.
Access: City bus, get off at Ginkakuji-mae or Nanzenji-Eikando-michi (#5 and 100 from Kyoto Sta.)
The northern part of Kyoto is called Rakuhoku. Here, the visitor can enjoy rich natural beauty and numerous beautiful historical locations. As the area is mountainous, it is colder than the central part of the city, making it a popular summer retreat. The area around Kitayama Station is one of Kyoto’s trendiest destinations at present.
Shisen-do Temple
This was built in 1641 as the residence of Ishikawa Jozan, a samurai who served Tokugawa Ieyasu and then retired to become a poet. The wonderfully landscaped garden, known for its serene atmosphere, features a unique teeter-totter bamboo device that fills with water and then drops on a stone with a sharp crack.
Tel: 075-781-2954
Open: 9:00-17:00, closed on May 23.
Entry: ¥500

Manshu-in Temple
This temple stands in a small forested compound at the base of Mount Hiei. The temple's sand and wood landscape garden, in which the white sand symbolizes water, uses the nearby mountain scenery as a fine backdrop. The temple is a designated national scenic spot, and is home to some 1,200 cultural treasures. In spring the temple is popular for its plum and camellia flowers. In autumn the maple leaves attract large crowds.

Kamigamo Shrine

A designated UNESCO World Heritage Site, this shrine, covering an area of 664,000 square meters, includes 34 shrine buildings all of which are designated as important national cultural assets. The main hall was rebuilt in 1863. The Aoi Matsuri festival procession (May 15) finishes here.

Tel: 075-781-0011
Entry: free

Kamigamo-shake-machi Town Area

This quiet residential area, home to the priests of Kamigamo Shrine, is located on the opposite side of a clear stream, slightly southeast of the shrine. Each large traditional house, surrounded in a tall earthen wall, has its own bridge. Priests use the water from the stream for purification ceremonies. One of the houses, the former residence of the Nishikibe, is open to public.

Tel: 075-781-0011
Entry: free

Kitayama Street

This elegant shopping street, stretching mainly eastward from the Kitayama Bridge on the Kamogawa River, is bordered by the Kyoto Botanical Gardens and the Kyoto Concert Hall to the south. Known as Kyoto's most fashionable shopping street, it is crowded with trendy restaurants, cafes, and boutiques. Just walking down the street to look at its fancy buildings and displays can be great fun.

Tel: 075-724-2188
Entry: ¥100

Takaragaike Park

This park of beautiful lawns and natural forests is the most spacious in Kyoto and is home to the city's largest artificial lake (which was designed to serve as disaster relief in the event of a serious drought). The park is surrounded with landscaped walking paths and open areas. The Kyoto International Conference Hall, located on the opposite side of the lake, stands as a unique combination of Japanese traditional and modern architecture.

Tel: 075-711-2244

With more than 1,200 years of history, Kyoto is home to nearly 70 different handicraft traditions. Many of these traditions are alive and well, adding a special sense of vitality and cultural depth to the city’s already remarkable historical heritage.

Kiyomizu Yaki
This style of pottery glazing and design was developed in the Kiyomizu area. Its excellent designs and various techniques are famous throughout the world.

Yuzen Dyeing
A colorful design and dyeing process inspired by seasonal and natural motifs, yuzen dyeing plays an important role in traditional kimono and obi production.

Nishijin Brocade
This gorgeous silk fabric weaving process, developed in Kyoto’s Nishijin weaving district, is known for its delicate patterns.

Natural Dyeing
This age-old dyeing process uses natural materials to yield the delicate tints and soft feeling particular to Japanese fabrics.

Kyoto Fans
Beautifully crafted and delicately decorated, Kyoto fans have a long history as a distinctive symbol of refinement that continues even today.

Kyo Zogan (Damascene)
Kyoto damascene is widely admired for its high engraving quality. Using fine silver and gold foils, this technique is used to make a wide range of interior decorations and jewelry.

Kyoto is home to much of Japan’s living art and craft traditions. Experience the magic. See for yourself what Kyoto handicrafts are all about.

With its long history and culture, Kyoto has an impressive calendar of important seasonal events. Many of these special rituals and ceremonies bring visitors from all over the country.

1-29
Gion Matsuri (Gion Festival)
This festival, consists of a number of purification rites and rituals held between the 1st and the 29th. The highlight is the three nights (14th, 15th, 16th) leading up to the giant procession (17th) of rolling, wooden, float-towers covered in ancient textiles and pulled by business people from the 8th to the 12th at Ebisu Shrine, Hatsu Ebisu dates back to the 16th century.

3
Yabusame Shinji
This horse and archery event is held annually in Shimogamo Shrine on the 3rd. It functions as a preliminary, purification ritual of the Aoi Matsuri festival.

5 May

7
Aoi Matsuri (Hollyhock Festival)
One of Kyoto's three major festivals, the Aoi Matsuri is held on the 15th. A 700-meter procession of carts and people dressed in authentic historical costumes parades from the Imperial Palace to Shimogamo Shrine and Kamigamo Shrine.

3rd Sunday
Mifune Matsuri (Mifune Festival)
Held on the 3rd Sunday of May on the river in Arashiyama. Highlights include an elegant aristocratic atmosphere, poetry, court music and dancing on some twenty imperial boats.

Outdoor Yuka Dining Platforms
For four-and-a-half months, from about May 1st, restaurants along the west side of the Kamogawa River set up outdoor dining platforms called yuka.

1/2
Kyoto Takigi Noh
This magnificent nighttime traditional theatre performance, lit by burning torches, is held at Heian Shrine on the 1st and 2nd. The event only dates back to 1950, but the performance and the players themselves are timeless and mysterious.

10 Oct.
Jidai Matsuri (Festival of the Ages)
This magnificent procession, some 1,700 people, in traditional costumes, hosted by Heian Shrine on the 22nd, leaves from the Imperial Palace (lasts about three hours in total).

11 Nov.
Kurama no Himatsuri (Fire festival in Mt. Kurama)
This wild and unique fire festival takes place in the mountain village of Kurama on the 22nd. At the climax of the festival, male family members (after the small boys have paraded about with their own torches), carry long burning fire torches up to Yuki Shrine on the mountainside.

12 Dec.
Kencha Sai (Tea Festival)
Held on the 1st of the month at Kitano Tenmangu Temple, this festival was established by Toyotomi Hideyoshi in 1587. Events include tea ceremonies, shrine rituals and different forms of entertainment.
Visiting popular spots in Kyoto

Kyoto is well served by an efficient system of buses. Take buses whenever you can. Using a bus might seem very complicated at first, but once you get used to them you will find that they are extremely convenient, fast and inexpensive. If you are in a party of three or four, you might find that a taxi, in many instances, is just as convenient. Buses are the way to get to many of Kyoto’s most famous tourist attractions. The leading tourist spots in the city are: Kiyomizu Temple, Heian Shrine, Ginkakuji Temple (Silver Pavilion), Kinkakuji Temple (Golden Pavilion), and Nijo Castle.
Kyoto Area Walking Courses

Historical, traditional Kyoto is home to thousands of temples and shrines, countless living, cultural traditions, fascinating architecture and abundant greenery. Blessed with four distinct seasons, Kyoto is special all year round. Encounter a world of wonderful people and traditional living, explore Kyoto.

Kyoto Station Area Walking Course

Toji Temple — Umekoji Park — Nishi Honganji Temple — Higashi Honganji Temple — Shoseien Garden — Kyoto Station Building

Highlights

Walking north on Omiyadori from Toji Temple, one reaches the green expanse of wonderfully landscaped Umekoji Park. In the park, in addition to the Umekoji Steam Locomotive Museum, there is a fine restaurant overlooking a pond. From here, the walk continues to Nishi Honganji Temple and Higashi Honganji Temple, both major sites of historical and cultural interest. The last spot on the walk is Kyoto Station, a modern edifice full of shopping and relaxation options.

Kiyomizu-dera Temple Area Walking Course

Highlights

This walk starts at the amazing Kiyomizu-dera Temple complex. From the temple visitors walk down a descending series of narrow laneways full of pottery shops, cafes and restaurants. The path then leads into the Maruyama Park, and on to the large compounds of Chion-in Temple and Shoren-in Temple, full of treasures and historical buildings.

Nanzenji Temple Area Walking Course

Nanzenji Temple — Eikan-do Temple — Tetsugakunomichi (Path of Philosophy) — Ginkakuji Temple (Silver Pavilion)

Highlights

This walk starts from the main gate of Nanzenji Temple. A little further up the road lies Eikan-do Temple, famous for its autumn leaves. From Eikan-do, visitors follow the world-famous two-kilometer Path of Philosophy up to Ginkakuji Temple, one of Kyoto’s most popular attractions.

Ohara Kurama Hiking Course

Highlights

This walk begins on the west side of the historical village of Ohara. From the serene silence of Jakko-in Temple, visitors enter the mountains, passing in front of Ebumi Shrine, and walk over the Ebumi Ridge to the village of Shizuhara. From here the path leads over another ridge to the old village of Kurama where visitors can relax in an outdoor hotspa, shop for vegetable pickle delicacies or simply marvel at the greenery and fresh air.

The path continues to Yasaka Shrine, and then on to Gion Corner, where visitors can experience a number of different traditional art performances.
Flea Markets

Kyoto is the capital of Japan when it comes to temple and shrine markets. These monthly events offer the visitor an excellent opportunity to shop (bargaining is expected!, so don't be shy) for old things like kimono and antiques, or for just about anything else one might imagine. But best of all these events are a great way to see Japanese people, old and young alike.

Toji Temple (the 21st of each month)

This large market, also known as Kobo-san, in memory of the 8th century Buddhist saint, Kobo Daishi, is covered with about 1,200 stalls (antiques, clothing, food, plants, ceramics, etc.). The biggest Kobo-san markets are in December and January.

Access Karasuma subway line, Kujo Sta.

Kitano Tenmangu Shrine (the 25th of each month)
