Barkhausen in Japan

On invitation of his former students Barkhausen visited Japan from september till november 1938. During this time Barkhausen gave numerous lectures and talks about his work in the field of electronics and especially on his research on vacuum tubes. Among the places he visited were the cities of Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe. There were also a lot of official meetings with representatives from science, government and industry.

Visit to the Department of Electrical Engineering of the Ministry of Communications of Japan, 27th september 1938.

Visit to the National Research Council of Japan, Radio Committee, 11th october 1938

Barkhausen during one of his lectures

Barkhausens impressions about Japan

This expose was published as a report of the committee for the appointment of professors. It contains Barkhausens's opinion about science and teaching at japanese universities in comparisom with Germany.
The booklet contains the first pages of this report.

Newspaper articles about Barkhausens's Japan visit